Summer Vegetable Gardening

Presented by John Duran

Date April 2021

#1 Starting too big is a challenge.

- Start with a wish list and a plan.
- Don't start too big and get over whelmed.
 - select a site with good soil, level ground, a close water supply, adequate sun light (8 hrs.), close access.
- Start with existing flower beds, a container, or a small grow bed.
 - Don't be afraid to mix flowers and veggie.
 - I have 7 fruit & citrus trees in my front yard.
 - You control the size by pruning. You don't need dwarf varieties $$.
- Add new garden beds-zones as you grow in knowledge.
 - Crop rotation the ideal are 4 beds(chart).
 - raised beds improve water drainage & use good soil, easy to amend.

#2 Understand your climate

- Know your frost dates, first and last.
- Know your chill hours for your fruit trees.
- Know your growing zone/calendar dates (climate is changing).
- Plants are classified into two growing seasons
 - Cool weather crops (roots, leaves, stems, mature flower parts).
 - Plant August-September (winter crop)
 - They grow at 55' to 75' and can tolerate trost
 - Warm weather (produce fruits and vegetables).
 - Plant April-May, fruit June to October.
 - Plant at 65' to 95' cannot tolerate frost.
 - Fruiting part of the plant is eaten (tomato, melon, beans, squash, corn
 - Tomato blossoms fall off if +nitrogen or water (nothing but plant), Temp is too high or too low, shade, smoke,
 - Pick a location with at least 8 hour of sunlight.

You can't fool mother nature (but you can trick her).

5 Focus on building healthy soil.

- Tilth is the condition of the soil in regards to planting seeds or transplants. To improve here are some suggestions:
 - Compost is best if you let mature 6-12 months. Don't waste money composting large garden areas. Place one or two shovel full where you are going to plant or in a row.
 - Be careful, too much organic matter may increase the amount of salts and stunt plant growth.

 Use manure (horse [good], cow [lots of weed seeds], chicken [lots of nitrogen, too hot]).

box

#5 healthy soil continued:

- Use mulch, saw dust, leaves, lawn clippings, peat moss, any organic matter (watch the pH)
- No till method uses deep rooted plants (wheat, perennials Echinacia, Rudbeckia,) don't pull out plants when dead, cut the tops and leave the roots.
- Use mulch or cover crops. Careful, peas add a lot of nitrogen.
- Weed control methods;
 - Mulch, weed block (box stores, Synlawn), newspaper, black plastic (bad), cardboard.

7 Problems and pest, don't ignore:

- Use natural predators, plants that attract.
 - Lady bugs (don't buy, they fly away home), lace wing larva, hover flies.
 - Remember chemicals kill everything bad and good.
 - I plant wild sunflowers and oregano to attract mason bees into the garden.
- Hand pick pest in the early morning.
- Use bacillus thuringiensis (Bt) for caterpillars.

9 Herb production.

- Cilantro is a cool weather crop and has a deep tap root. Not a good transplant.
- Oregano is great for attracting bees into the garden. Harvest and dry the flowers.
- Basil is a summer herb, cut the flower tips to grow more leaves.
 - Make pesto, freeze in ice cube trays.
 - Make new plants with tip cutting in the fall.
- Parsley is a perennial, semi sun-shade.

Questions???

- Duran's quotes to garden by:
 - Remember to choose your battles wisely, ones you can win!!
 - Plant what you are going to eat.
 - Don't be afraid to experiment.
 - If you don't plant something in your garden Mother Nature will.
 - You can't fool Mother Nature (but you can trick her).
 - Never give up, enjoy life in the garden.
